However in the event of outages, the SLA/Uptime Policy defines refund conditions and eligibility.

- If we are unable to deliver your service within 48 business hours you may request a refund. Custom Quotes, Special Orders or Services where delivery time has been negotiated are exempted from this and are not subject to delivery delay refunds unless otherwise agreed. Delivery time is counted from the time a ticket is opened inquiring about the delivery of a service.
- Refunds/Credits will be granted in line with the Service Level Agreement / Uptime Policy.
- We reserve the right to offer refunds to any customer for any reason on a case-by-case basis. This does not constitute an agreement to refund to any other customer in the same or similar situation.
Uptime Guarantee

If your service has a physical downtime that is not within 99% uptime for any given month, you may receive one month of credit on your account. Approval of the credit is at the discretion of X4B support staff upon justification provided.

Third party monitoring service reports may not be accepted as justification due to a variety of factors including the monitor’s network availability. The uptime of the server is defined as the reported uptime from our off-network third party monitoring solution taking into consideration any issues with said service at the time. This does not include issues with service backends where we do not manage the backend services.

Service uptime may differ from the uptime reported by other individual services in such cases as nullroutes (or suspensions) where the service has exceeded the provided protection (if any) or violated any clause of the ToS or AUP.

Uptime may minorly differ from the figures report publicly, although we will try our best to ensure accurate disclosure of public information at all times. To request a credit, please contact with justification. All requests must be made in writing via email or support ticket.

Uptime guarantees are only available for paid services and not free trials or any other form of non-paid service.

Uptime is defined as the ratio of the time server is online subtracting any downtime. Downtime excludes any scheduled maintenance (where notification has been given) and service specific actions such as nullroutes for exceeding protection or suspensions due to abuse or violation of ToS or AUP.
